SUMMARY

Jennifer Hull is a Managing Director in BRG's Capital Markets Group, which specializes in the regulation of and securities trading by brokers-dealers, investment advisers, hedge funds, insurance companies and banks. She provides clients with services involving forensic investigations, financial statement analysis, compliance, technical audit and accounting guidance, and damage assessment. Ms. Hull is a Certified Public Accountant and is Accredited in Business Valuation by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. She has audit experience in numerous entities, including trusts, hedge funds, hedge fund administrators, and insurance companies. Ms. Hull is proficient in internal control standards as well as audit standards issued by the AICPA, PCAOB and IAASB.

Frequent topics of Ms. Hull's consulting engagements include damage calculations, estimates of fair value, adherence with stated investment objectives, sufficiency of audit procedures and/or audit evidence, adherence with U.S. GAAP, IFRS, or statutory accounting principles (SAP), the calculation of performance fees, achievement of risk transfer, and adequacy of disclosures.

Ms. Hull testified in the defense of an audit partner whose team audited a hedge fund feeder to Bernard L Madoff Investment Securities ("BLMIS"). Her scope of testimony included assessment of "red flags" that allegedly should have signaled to the audit partner that he should have performed additional audit procedures, including seeking a service organization control report relating to BLMIS. Her analysis included review of audit programs, work papers and conclusions in the context of BLMIS' alleged investment strategy and available information.

Several of Ms. Hull's recent consulting engagements concerned accusations that private equity fund managers overstated the fair value of investments in private companies. Ms. Hull's consulting in those matters required studies of internal controls, evaluation and calculation of performance and management fees, examination of valuation practices in accordance with U.S. GAAP and with industry standards, and study of external audit procedures.

Another of Ms. Hulls' recent consulting engagements involved work with counsel on behalf of former executives at American International Group, Inc. (AIG). Ms. Hull was a member of the team that reviewed the reporting structure at AIG, analyzed internal controls, and assessed compliance with COSO Internal Control – Integrated Framework. In addition, Ms. Hull assessed loss development for a book of business that was ceded to an offshore reinsurance company and evaluated related disclosures in statutory filings, particularly Schedule P.

Ms. Hull was also a member of the team that investigated the failure of the National Futures Association auditors to detect the fraud at Peregrine Financial Group, Inc. The investigation analyzed audit standards and the regulatory and operational aspects of future commission merchants.

Prior to joining a global consulting firm in 2006, Ms. Hull spent four years working for Aon Captive Services Group (“ACSG”), which was the largest captive insurance management organization in the world. She was based in the Cayman Islands and was responsible for managing a diverse portfolio of captive insurance companies. Her responsibilities included coordinating and executing insurance and reinsurance agreements, directing and analyzing actuarial reviews, maintaining accounting and corporate records, monitoring regulatory compliance, and adhering to the Cayman Islands guidelines for the prevention and detection of money laundering. Ms. Hull’s responsibilities also included presenting insurance / reinsurance programs, financial statistics and domicile information at periodic meetings of each insurance company’s Board of Directors. Her work required extensive coordination with auditors, lawyers, regulators, insurance brokers, risk managers, and investment managers.

Prior to working for ACSG, Ms. Hull spent four years working for Arthur Andersen LLP in Minneapolis and in the Cayman Islands. She assisted with audits required by regulators or financial institutions for clients in various industries. Her audit clients included a Minneapolis HMO as well as Cayman domiciled captive insurance companies, banks, hedge funds, and hedge fund administrators. Her financial investigative assignments included matters involving alleged money laundering and other fraudulent activities.

Professional Malpractice

- Ms. Hull was engaged on behalf of counsel for the independent trustees of a fund registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940. The fund suffered losses from a protracted fraud committed by the fund's investment manager. Ms. Hull led an investigation to determine whether basis for claim exists against the external auditor to the fund. As such, she evaluated the auditors' risk assessment procedures and evaluated audit procedures that addressed the existence assertion.
- On behalf of various auditors of hedge funds that had brokerage accounts at Bernard Madoff's broker-dealer, performed a forensic review of Madoff's fraud so that it could be explained to a court. Ms. Hull evaluated the role of various parties such as investment managers, custodians, hedge fund administrators, auditors, the DTC, the NSCC, the SEC, and FINRA. She also performed an assessment of "red flags" that allegedly should have signaled to the audit partner that he should have performed additional audit procedures with respect to Madoff's broker-dealer.
- Managed litigation support and prepared expert witnesses for trial in an auditing malpractice case. The subject audits were of a domestic P&C insurance company. Ms. Hull led the engagement team to analyze the audit, actuarial, and tax files. She assisted with discovery, multiple expert reports, depositions, and preparation of trial exhibits. She also attended and assisted at jury trial.

- Managed litigation support and prepared expert witness for testimony in a professional malpractice case. Various professional service organizations were accused of knowingly aiding a lender's concealment of financial and loan performance information from its insurance carrier. Ms. Hull coordinated data compilation and analysis, assisted with preparation of an expert report, deposition testimony, and calculation of damages.

Internal Controls

- Assisted counsel to a publicly traded entity that develops products for life science research. Ms. Hull assisted counsel with the role of the entity's general counsel concerning Internal Control Over Financial Reporting ("ICFR") for purposes of explaining his role to the court. Ms. Hull also assisted counsel with audit and accounting guidance concerning loss contingencies and significant deficiencies in ICFR.
- Assisted counsel to former executives of a CFTC-registered futures commission merchant and a SEC-registered broker-dealer regarding policies and procedures for maintenance of excess funds in segregation. Ms. Hull reviewed external audit work papers and advised counsel about relevant audit findings.
- Performed an evaluation to respond to allegations that a charge-off was indicative of a material weakness in internal controls and that the material weakness caused material errors in a bank's financial statements. Ms. Hull demonstrated an understanding of the COSO framework for internal control, GAAS that address an auditor's responsibilities with internal controls at an audited entity, and the concept of materiality as defined by U.S. GAAP and the SEC.
- Assessed internal audit programs and internal controls related to an insurance company's asset-liability management, its macro-hedging strategy, its derivatives trading, and its control activities for segregation of duties.
- Evaluated whether an FCM's policies and procedures were established in accordance with industry standards for the approval of new customer credit, the ongoing monitoring for customer credit risk, and judging the efficacy of application of risk limits.
- Consulted with attorneys that represented an executive accused of preparing corporate records that concealed that employee stock option grants were priced with the benefit of hindsight. Ms. Hull performed research and fact-finding regarding the SEC's stock option backdating claims and performed related analysis of internal controls.

Suitability and Breach of Fiduciary Duties

- Assisted counsel to a bank concerning allegations from an investor that the bank, among others, fraudulently induced the investor into making an investment in a group of companies that provided premium financing options to buyers of life insurance. The program that allegedly caused the investor losses was a structured premium finance program. Ms. Hull evaluated the due diligence and monitoring performed by the investor and assisted with responding to plaintiff statements about the viability of the structured premium finance program.

- For an ultra-short mutual fund, provided research, analysis, and trial demonstratives regarding the fund's communications with the public ("CWTP"), and the process by which CWTP were created, reviewed, and approved. Analysis was performed to determine (1) risks associated with ultra-short mutual funds, (2) whether one fund's CWTP was consistent with industry practice, and (3) whether specific statements were materially false or misleading.
- For leveraged ETFs, provided research and analysis regarding the adequacy of disclosures about compounding, leverage and volatility in the Prospectus and Statement of Information.
- Analyzed whether a broker-dealer fulfilled its suitability obligations regarding the sale of Structured Investment Vehicle (SIV-lite) Asset Backed Commercial Paper to an insurance company. Performed research to ascertain the credit approval, credit monitoring and compliance procedures at the broker-dealer to analyze whether those procedures adhered to industry standards. For the engagement, Ms. Hull also performed research and analysis about evaluations by Nationally Recognized Statistical Rating Organizations and the events leading to the 2007/2008 credit crisis.
- Regarding a FINRA Department of Enforcement action, evaluated whether a broker-dealer conducted sufficient due diligence to determine whether certain REITs could be recommended to investors. Ms. Hull also performed research and analysis of valuation practices and impairment charges taken by numerous non-listed public REITs and evaluated adequacy of disclosures in Forms 10-K.
- Provided extensive assistance with a damage calculation related to when the Reserve Primary Fund broke the buck in September 2008. Ms. Hull evaluated large quantities of subscription data, redemption data, and liquidation events for exclusion or inclusion in the formula used to calculate damages.
- Evaluated whether an investment adviser made unauthorized investments in development stage companies and whether the adviser later misreported the values of those investments. Work required financial and operational analysis related to development stage entities and study of the guidance for an external auditor's consideration of an entity's ability to continue as a going concern (AU 342). Work also required analysis of valuation estimates for compliance with industry standards (such as the U.S. Private Equity Valuation Guidelines issued by the Private Equity Industry Guidelines Group) and for compliance with U.S. GAAP (such as ASC 820 Fair Value Measurements and Disclosures).
- Reconstructed hedge fund financial statements, recalculated performance figures and advised counsel to an investment adviser accused of violating securities law in his reporting of hedge fund performance estimates to investors.
- Provided analysis and calculated damages for client seeking retribution for breach of fiduciary and contractual duties by his financial planner. Client was advised to, and did invest, in a complex life insurance strategy. The investment in life insurance was not appropriate for the client. Further, additional analysis provided evidence that policy selection was motivated by a commission sharing arrangement.

- Consulted with attorneys that represented a plaintiff that accused his broker of not abiding by FINRA suitability rules. Ms. Hull developed a model to track portfolio assets and calculate performance based on time-weighted cash flows. Ms. Hull also performed research to determine suitable benchmark indexes and appropriate asset allocation for use in a damages model.
- Consulted with attorneys that represented a defendant broker accused of not abiding by FINRA suitability and diversification rules. Ms. Hull created hypothetical investment portfolios for damage calculations and prepared arbitration exhibits.
- Consulted with attorneys that represented an investment adviser charged by the SEC for overstating the value of portfolio companies. Ms. Hull assisted with research and fact-finding and performed extensive accounting and valuation analysis.

Insurance

- Provided consulting services to counsel for former directors and officers of a failed insurance company. Ms. Hull analyzed financial statements and loss development patterns. She also assessed adherence to SAP and U.S. GAAP as relates to the accounting for reinsurance and the accounting for loss reserves. Guidance utilized included NAIC publications, SSAP No. 55 Unpaid Claims, Losses and Loss Adjustment Expenses, SSAP No. 62 Property and Casualty Reinsurance, and ASC 944 Financial Services – Insurance.
- Assisted counsel to an insurance company regarding various insurance programs so that the programs could be explained to a court. Ms. Hull also advised counsel about the duties and responsibilities of fronting carriers and about the duties and responsibilities of trustees of Regulation 114 Trusts. Guidance utilized included NAIC publications, AICPA Audit and Accounting Guides, and ASC 820 Fair Value Measurements and Disclosures.
- Assisted counsel to an insurance broker by performing forensic accounting and analysis concerning a captive insurance company that insured parent risk, participated in a risk pool, and participated in an unrelated quota share program.
- Provided forensic accounting and consulting services to counsel with regard to an insurance company's writing of lender protection insurance for a life insurance premium financing program. Ms. Hull analyzed data to determine how the insurer used its recovery rights to mitigate losses. She also analyzed the insurer's valuation methods and its disclosures for investments in life settlements. Specifically, she evaluated accounting practices and disclosures for compliance with ASC 325-30 Investments in Insurance Contracts.
- Performed research for the proper accounting of prospective unlocking of a life insurance Company's liability for future policy benefits and unamortized deferred acquisition costs. The engagement team was also asked to determine the proper statutory accounting and GAAP treatment of one of the Company's investments.
- Worked on an engagement team that was retained to offer assistance relative to a life insurance company's future business strategy. Ms. Hull assisted with RBC projections, analysis of recapture risk, preparation of a runoff liquidity model, and presentations to the board of directors. She also analyzed statutory and U.S. GAAP fair value accounting requirements for subprime and Alt-A RMBS.

- Assisted with response to SEC queries stemming from a reinsurance company's financial restatement that may have revealed past instances of inadequate risk transfer analysis. Ms. Hull provided accounting research, analysis, and reconciliation.

Investigations

- Participated on a team to investigate and analyze the failure of the National Futures Association ("NFA") auditors to detect the fraud at Peregrine Financial Group, Inc. Work required review and analysis of approximately 20 different audits over a period exceeding 15 years. The investigation analyzed the procedures established by the Joint Audit Committee as well as the NFA audit practices and procedures. The investigative team ultimately provided recommendations for how NFA audit procedures could be improved.
- Assisted with an audit committee investigation of an insurance company's inappropriate claims handling practices and procedures, as well as management's knowledge / tolerance of those practices. Ms. Hull attended interviews, coordinated the evaluation of internal control weaknesses, and coordinated document review. She documented results of interviews, internal control remediation and document review in a chronology report for the audit committee.
- Assisted an HVAC service provider in assessing the effectiveness of their Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) compliance efforts.
