BIOSUMMARY

Catharine Lawton is a managing director at Berkeley Research Group. Ms. Lawton has over 25 years of experience assisting clients and counsel involved in business problems, disputes, and litigation. Her experience includes participation in a broad range of commercial, government and regulated industry consulting engagements involving business problems and disputes, litigation, and arbitration in a wide range of industries. She has assisted clients in negotiations and settlement discussions, and has provided deposition and trial testimony.

Her experience includes consultation with counsel and management on a wide variety of financial and economic issues. These include lost profits and damage analysis, and the financial analysis of companies, divisions, and product lines, and have involved incremental cost analysis, profitability studies, pricing studies, financial forecasting, damage exposure analysis, fraud investigations, specialized accounting issues, technology valuation, and more. These issues have arisen in matters involving antitrust actions, breach of contract claims, construction claims, dealer/distributor termination actions, fraud investigations, intellectual property disputes, lender liability actions, and workout situations, among others.

Ms. Lawton has consulted to both large and small clients in many different industries including banking, biotechnology, computer hardware and software, construction, consumer products, electronics, entertainment, fast food, healthcare, insurance, manufacturing, oil and gas, pharmaceuticals, pulp and paper, printing and publishing, semiconductors, telecommunications, title insurance, warehouse and manufacturing automation, and waste hauling and disposal.

Ms. Lawton has particularly extensive experience in intellectual property disputes and litigation.
