PROGRAM OUTLINE AND STRUCTURE

- BRG partners with local high schools and organizations to identify high-potential students. Requirements include a high level of interest in the program, consistent attendance, and taking the most rigorous course load available.
- The program is open to students in ninth through twelfth grades but is intended to start at the ninth-grade level and follow the student throughout high school.
- The program includes a summer session that consists of a welcome event, four consecutive days on site, and class offerings. The program offers educational sessions, skill-building sessions, and networking opportunities.
- Upon completion of the program, students continue to participate in events including college admission panels, local day trips, and informational sessions with our experts.
- Instructors are BRG professionals participating on a volunteer basis. They provide students with mentorship and assistance navigating high school, the college application process, and other aspects of early stage professional development.
- Participating BRG offices include Washington, DC, Los Angeles, New York, and Boston and sponsor all student transportation and meal costs.

Technology, medicine,
and engineering aren't
the only things in the world. There should really be an emphasis on teaching kids about business, because business revolves around everything."
